CONFERENCE TOPICS

In this moment, the world's biggest challenge is still inflation which was primarily caused by energy crisis more than two years ago and logistic problems. There is ongoing debate is this inflation more cost-push or demand-pull, because of expansive monetary policy in the previous period. Nevertheless, almost all central banks increased the level of their interest rate scope, and all major financial institutions across the globe cut their forecasted statistics, stagflation is already a reality. Public debt is at the highest level ever, measured on the world basis. The scope of the conference is to analyze the impact of the global economic situation due to many severe factors on different spheres of economy (financial markets, macro-economies, industries, service sectors, etc.). A priority is given to papers with the analysis of quantitative data, but also welcome are studies with theoretical discussions.
